1. This new resource enables you to learn and revise effectively and creatively.*

2. Please do NOT assume that everything will be recorded. This technology is being rolled out over the next two years, and there is no obligation for staff to record their lectures. Any queries - check with your lecturer.

3. Seminars and other ‘interactive’ sessions will NOT be recorded. Furthermore, not all lectures (e.g. those using chalkboards) are suitable for recording.

4. Mediasite does NOT replace lectures. Lecture recordings are intended as a supplement - you are still expected to attend your lectures as normal, take notes, engage with your unit and read the supplementary readings.

5. The microphone is unlikely to pick up student voices. If you want to make sure you are not recorded, speak to your lecturer before the scheduled lecture.

6. A RED light (on the lectern) indicates a recording is taking place. A FLASHING light indicates a recording is paused. NO LIGHT means no recording is taking place.

7. You can expect recordings to be available within two working days, unless your lecturer has advised you otherwise.

8. Recordings can only be accessed from within the unit space on Blackboard. You can access the recordings on any device, using the free Blackboard mobile app (Android and iOS versions) or device browser.

9. Do NOT make copies of the Mediasite recordings as per the student agreement.

10. Recordings will be accessible for YOUR lifetime as a student at the University of Bristol.

Disclaimer: As with any technology, failures can happen and there are occasions when it is possible that a lecture will not be recorded and/or published.

*As with other services reasonable adjustments will be made for disabled students, including, but not limited to, the provision of subtitling.
